STATIC TERMS AND CONDITIONS

ONDC Mobility Network · Domain: ONDC:TRV10 · Version 2.1.0

Effective for Travedeal.in's on-demand mobility services made available through the Open Network for Digital Commerce (ONDC). These terms describe the general conditions for consumers and driver/service partners using the service.

1. Scope, roles and acceptance

Travedeal.in participates in the ONDC mobility network for on-demand ride services. A booking may involve the consumer-facing Buyer Network Participant (Buyer App), Travedeal.in and/or the relevant ride service provider, and the assigned driver. The role of each participant in a particular transaction is reflected in the booking and transaction information shown to the consumer.

By placing a booking, the consumer agrees to these terms as applicable to that booking, together with the fare, service details and any additional conditions displayed before confirmation. If information shown in the booking conflicts with a general description here, the transaction-specific information and applicable law will govern to the extent of the conflict.

2. Consumer / Buyer terms

2.1 Service and booking

Services are on-demand, point-to-point mobility rides. Available vehicle categories may include auto-rickshaw and cab categories, depending on location, supply and the options shown in the Buyer App. A booking request is subject to driver and vehicle availability. The consumer should check pickup point, destination, vehicle category, estimated fare and other booking details before confirming.

2.2 Fare and additional charges

The fare is displayed through the booking flow and may depend on factors such as route, distance, applicable base fare, time-related or night charges, waiting, traffic conditions and the selected vehicle category. Where applicable, tolls, parking, government levies or other disclosed route-related charges may be payable in addition to the displayed fare. Any applicable amount and payment instructions should be checked in the transaction details.

2.3 Payment

Payment must be made using the payment method or instructions shown for the booking. Depending on the transaction, payment may be collected digitally through the relevant payment flow or paid directly to the driver, including cash where offered. Consumers should retain the booking and payment reference for support or dispute resolution.

2.4 Consumer conduct and accurate information

Consumers must provide accurate pickup and destination details, be available at the agreed pickup point, follow reasonable safety instructions and treat drivers respectfully. Consumers must not misuse the service, submit fraudulent payment or refund claims, or use the service for unlawful purposes.

3. Cancellation and ride termination

The consumer may cancel a booking using the cancellation function available in the Buyer App. The following cancellation policy applies to Travedeal.in's on-demand ride bookings:

- No cancellation fee is charged when the driver has been assigned, is en route, or has arrived, provided the ride has not started.
- If the ride has already started and the consumer requests termination, the consumer is responsible for the fare attributable to the distance travelled up to termination, subject to the transaction details and applicable law.
- Repeated last-minute cancellations, misuse of booking functionality or abusive conduct may lead to review and proportionate restrictions or suspension, after appropriate review.

If a driver cancels, does not arrive, cannot provide the booked service, or a safety concern arises, the consumer should report the issue through the support/issue-management process. Any fare adjustment or refund will be assessed based on the transaction record and circumstances.

4. Refunds and fare disputes

A consumer may request review of a charge or refund where, for example, there is a duplicate payment, an incorrect fare, a driver or service failure, a verified misconduct issue, or another substantiated problem with the transaction.

- Travedeal.in will review the booking, payment and available supporting information before deciding the request.
- Where a refund is approved, it will be initiated promptly through the applicable ONDC/payment process. Credit to the original payment method may take approximately 5–7 business days, depending on the bank, payment provider and payment method.
- Where review does not establish a service or payment issue warranting a refund, the request may be declined with an appropriate explanation through the available support or grievance process.

Consumers should provide the transaction/order reference, a description of the issue and relevant supporting details. The above processing estimate is not a guarantee of the time taken by a bank or payment provider.

5. Driver and service-partner terms

5.1 Eligibility and documents

Drivers and service partners must hold and maintain all licences, permits and documents required by applicable law for the vehicle and service category, including a valid driving licence, vehicle registration, insurance and applicable commercial permits. Drivers must accept only bookings for categories and vehicles they are authorised to operate.

5.2 Service standards and safety

- Follow applicable traffic rules, legal requirements and reasonable safety practices.
- Keep the vehicle roadworthy and reasonably clean, and provide the service corresponding to the confirmed booking.
- Treat consumers fairly and respectfully, without harassment, discrimination, threats or abusive conduct.
- Protect consumer information and use trip information only for legitimate fulfilment, support, safety and compliance purposes.
- Do not falsely mark a ride as completed, manipulate fares, misuse payment/refund processes or engage in fraudulent conduct.

5.3 Cancellation, complaints and enforcement

A driver who cannot fulfil a confirmed booking should promptly use the available cancellation or support process and provide accurate information. Complaints may be reviewed using booking records and other relevant evidence. Where misconduct, safety concerns, repeated service failures or policy violations are substantiated, appropriate measures may include warnings, temporary suspension or removal from the service, subject to applicable law and the relevant review process.

5.4 Payouts and settlements

Driver and service-provider earnings, deductions, commissions, payment collection responsibilities and settlement timing are governed by the applicable commercial arrangement and the transaction/settlement information made available to the relevant party. No payout amount or settlement date is promised by this document unless expressly shown in the applicable agreement or transaction records.

6. Equal treatment and network participation

Travedeal.in will process mobility transactions in accordance with applicable ONDC network policies and the terms applicable to the transaction. Availability, pricing and fulfilment may vary according to vehicle category, location, supply, route and other disclosed operational factors. Participation in the network does not guarantee that a particular vehicle, driver or ride will always be available.

7. Privacy and handling of information

Information necessary to fulfil and support a ride may include pickup and drop-off locations, contact or masked-phone details, vehicle and driver details, trip status, order/transaction reference identifiers, payment status and information supplied in a support or grievance request. Such information may be shared with relevant network participants, service providers or authorities where reasonably necessary for booking fulfilment, payment, customer support, issue resolution, safety, fraud prevention or legal/regulatory compliance.

Travedeal.in does not sell personal information. Information should be accessed and retained only as needed for the purposes described above and in accordance with applicable privacy and data-protection law. Consumers and drivers should avoid sharing unnecessary sensitive information in support requests.

8. Issue and grievance management (IGM)

Consumers and driver/service partners should first raise a transaction-related issue through the support channel below, providing the order/transaction reference and a concise description of the issue. Travedeal.in will acknowledge and review the issue and communicate through the available contact channel.

- Expected initial response: within 2 hours.
- Expected resolution: within 1 business day, where the issue can reasonably be resolved within that period.

These are expected service timelines, not a guarantee that every complex case will be finally resolved within the stated period. Cases requiring additional information, third-party payment-provider action, investigation or regulatory input may take longer; the complainant should be informed where practicable. This process does not limit any statutory rights or remedies.

Where a dispute remains unresolved, it may be escalated through the applicable ONDC grievance or dispute-resolution mechanisms, including an ONDC-approved Online Dispute Resolution (ODR) process where applicable under current ONDC policies and the relevant transaction arrangements.

Nothing in these terms excludes rights or remedies that cannot lawfully be excluded under applicable law. The terms are to be interpreted subject to the laws and regulatory requirements applicable to the service and the parties.
